Each week, I would like you to share some evidence or an update on how you are getting on with your project. This can be done in the following way.

- Upload a photo to TEAMS-Assignments of what you have been doing.
- Write a short explanation of what you have done this week and upload to TEAMS.
- Share a skill that you have learned or improved, or a fact that you have found out.

As some of you may prefer to work on this at the weekend, we will share our progress on a Monday morning, rather than Thursday as we usually do.

Starting the week of the 7th of June we shall start to compile our evidence and create a short presentation to share with the class on what we have learned/created/completed during the 6 weeks. I can help you with this during class time if you like.

You will also find a record sheet attached to this post and in Assignments-this could be really helpful for you to keep regular records of your progress. I can print you off a paper copy too if that would be easier for you.

Any questions at all, please ask me.
